Comal ISD G/T boot camp attracts sharp minds

Comal ISD students put their collective minds to work during the Gifted/Talented Boot Camp held at Mountain Valley Middle June 14-17.

Students tackled projects like logic puzzles, astronaut survival in space, building bridges and towers, and even had to figure out how to flip a switch from eight feet away using supplies like spaghetti and straws.

“The whole week was about problem solving,” said Spring Branch Middle G/T teacher Troy Mann. “We wanted students to solve complex problems using limited resources.”

Mann and Canyon Middle School G/T teacher Tracy Rogers were the camp directors.
