Two CISD employees promoted to director positions

Comal ISD announces the promotion of Shanie Bowers to the district's new director of Special Education and Sandra Shelton to the position of director of Accountability and Instructional Technology. The appointments took effect earlier this month.

Bowers most recently has been the district's instructional coordinator of Special Education and joined the district in 2000 as an educational diagnostician. After earning her bachelor's degree from Texas Tech University she taught in the Canyon ISD in the Panhandle before coming to Comal. Her master's degree is from West Texas A&M University.

Shelton has been with Comal ISD since 1994 when she was hired as a teacher. She most recently was the instructional coordinator for Technology. Before joining Comal ISD she taught in the Lake Travis and Bay City school districts. Her bachelor's degree is from Southwest Texas State University and her master's is from Tarleton State University.
