CHS student wins statewide geography poster contest; two other Comal ISD students place high

Canyon High freshman Sydney Wilkins is the state winner in the high school category for her “Celebrating Asia: A Continent of Contrasts” poster in the Texas Alliance for Geographic Education’s 2007 Geography Awareness Week Poster Contest.

In addition, Comal ISD had two other contestants that placed in the top 10 in the middle school category – Smithson Valley Middle student Katelyn Kelso won second place and Church Hill Middle student Micaela Garcia won fourth place in the state.

More than 30,000 students from more than 150 Texas schools participated in this year’s poster contest.

Wilkins and three other first-place winners were honored in a ceremony at the Texas State Capitol Building in Austin, Nov. 14. Canyon High principal Brad Brown and CHS geography teacher Linda Hammon accompanied her.
