CISD students, employees team up for a cure

Team Comal, a team of more than 100 Comal ISD administrators, teachers, support personnel, students, family and friends, participated in the 13th annual Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure on Saturday, May 1 in San Antonio. This is the second year for Team Comal to participate in this event raising more than $1000.

A group from Comal Elementary School made up a large portion of Team Comal in support of the school's principal, Joni Coker (right), and a teacher, Valerie Cleckler. Both Coker and Cleckler have been diagnosed with breast cancer.

In recognition of the efforts of their colleagues, Coker and Cleckler both said, "We feel supported by our district and our Comal Elementary School staff. The Race for the Cure was such a positive celebration of life and an outpouring of hope for a cure. Many of our CISD and CES friends said that they were so inspired after the race that they plan on making it an annual event.”

Comal ISD students also got involved for the cause. Featured at left, the Smithson Valley High School and Smithson Valley Middle School cheerleaders participated in the race as well for family members, friends, and a teammate.

Thank you to all who participated and gave of themselves for such a worthy cause.
